The Panchayat Mahila Shakti Abhiyan

The Panchayat Mahila Shakti Abhiyan—a movement to strengthen the elected women of the PRIs—has been initiated under the aegis of the Ministry of Panchayati Raj and a "Chalo Gaon Ki Ore" rubric of the National Commission for Women. A core group comprising selected EWRs, activists, academics etc. is nominated by the State Government/ Government of India to draft and facilitate the draft women's charter. Subsequently, all women Zila Pramukhs, all women Pradhans and selected women Sarpanchs from each district of the state, as well as Core Group members and some eminent personalities are invited to the said two day conference of panchayat women. A women's charter comprising all the major points distilled from the discussions with the women representatives of the PRIs is then finalized.

The Panchayat Mahila Shakti Abhiyan has been conceptualized to initiate awareness about the gender issues in governance and to facilitate Elected Women Representatives in performing their mandate to the best of their abilities. Most EWRs see themselves as isolated and unorganized, functioning without a support of structure and have spoken of the need to form into groups or associations so as to be part of a forum that addresses their special needs in a largely male-dominated social and political milieu. So far, conferences of elected women representatives, activists, NGOs eminent personalities have been held as under:—

1. Udaipur (Rajasthan)-24th & 25th April, 2006.
2. Patiala (Punjab)-17th & 18th July, 2006.
3. Bangalore (Karnataka) 5th september, 2006.
